

CTE Classes Provide...

Pathways and Preparation for High Demand Fields

Engaging, Real World Projects and Challenges

College Credit and Industry Certification

Career Exploration and Work-Based Learning Experiences

Equivalency Credit in other Academic Areas

Opportunities for Leadership, Service and Skill Competitions

Edmonds CTE Department Launches CTE Promotions Student Internship Program

As part of its commitment to expand Career Connected Learning options across for students in Career and Technical Education programs, the CTE Department recently launched an in-district high school student internship program to support media promotion and marketing of CTE programs and courses. For this pilot year of the internship program, students were selected from the Video Productions program at Meadowdale High School. Students selected for this year's internship program are (pictured from left to right):

- Jessica Suiter, Junior
- Isaiah Reitan, Senior
- Matthew Corbin, Junior
- Ryan Meyer, Senior

These students began their internships in November and will continue with the CTE Department through the middle of June. With support from Erin Katz, Meadowdale HS Video Productions instructor and Work-Based Learning Coordinator, these interns will develop a variety of promotional media for CTE intra-district programs as well as a variety of other CTE courses in support of the department's promotion and marketing efforts. In addition to gaining valuable skills and work experience, students will also earn high school CTE credit for their internship experience.

For more information about Edmonds Career and Technical Education courses and programs, visit <https://cte.edmonds.wednet.edu>.